

Parent/Child Activity
Arthur's Eyes
By: Marc Brown

Enjoy reading with your child! It is a great way for children to learn expression and language patterns and provides a wonderful bonding opportunity for you and your child.

Before you begin Arthur's Eyes, look at the cover and discuss with you child what they think the story might be about.

When you finish reading the book, ask these questions—

- Which character did you like best? Why?
- What part of the book was your favorite?
- Could this book have ended in a different way?
- Would you tell your friend to read this book? Why or why not?

After Reading Activities

Can you think of a time that you felt different in your school or classroom? Arthur found someone in the same situation as himself. Talk with your parent about that experience and who may have helped you feel better.

Design a new pair of glasses for Arthur to wear.

Make a pair of glasses with pipe cleaners and construction paper.

Search the Internet for the history of glasses and find out how they are made.

Visit Arthur's web site and at <http://www.pbs.org/wgbh/arthur/>

Read other Arthur books such as, Arthur's TV Trouble, Arthur's Pet Business, Arthur Meets the President, and Arthur's Family Vacation.
